Harp Twins to Perform at The Connecticut Renaissance Faire for two Consecutive Weekends!

Lebanon, Conn. - Lebanon, Conn. - New England's Old England will once again come to life with the return of the Harp Twins to the Connecticut Renaissance Faire for their fourth consecutive year! The talented duo will perform for two consecutive weekends on September 23, 24, 30, and October 1.

Camille and Kennerly Kitt, known as the Harp Twins, are renowned for their electrifying performances of classic rock, metal, and soundtrack covers on their electric harps. With their unique blend of classical music and rock, they have gathered a huge following online and performed across the world.

We are excited to welcome the Harp Twins back to the Faire for two consecutive weekends. They have been so popular performing at our show the last few years and the demand was so strong we added a second weekend to increase our guests chances to catch their act." said Eric Tetreault, Marketing Director of the Connecticut Renaissance Faire. "Their incredible performances captivate audiences of all ages and blend perfectly with our enchanting 16th-century harvest festival.

The Connecticut Renaissance Faire is a New England tradition that celebrates the golden age of Europe's history. It features non-stop entertainment, thrilling jousting tournaments, hilarious comedy acts, and breathtaking acrobatics on ten stages. Visitors can indulge in delicious food and beverages, shop in New England's largest Medieval Marketplace, and participate in various activities and contests throughout the day.

Don't miss the chance to see the Harp Twins and all the other incredible performers at the Connecticut Renaissance Faire! For more information and to purchase tickets, visit <https://www.ctfaire.com>.
